“ Josh... man... it doesn't seem real. I grew up with you until our 6th grade year, you are part of my childhood. After you dropped out or whatever our 6th grade year I never saw you again. Until a few days before the wreck that took your life. You remember me my name a few classes we had together, we caught up on life... I asked you if you heard about our fellow class mate Cody Walston and his death and you did what we both said runs through my head every day... I said “man everybody out here is dieing young it's sad as fu.” You said and I remember this as clear as day “I know Zoe, shits heart breaking I hope you or I are not the next to go...” then I woke up on sep 30, 2020 to a text saying did you hear that josh passed away... I didn't believe it till I got on Facebook and the report of your death, post after post... my heart broke instantly and I thought about that small part of our convo... I miss you g... a good soul taken way to soon.

My thoughts have been with you and the rest of his family these past days. I know you guys don't know me but I was a friend of Josh's. We met because we both liked racing each other and had the same car, he was nice enough to take me on a ride in his the first night we met. But him and I had so much more in common than either of us knew about, and I didn't find out until recently. I never got the chance to be close with him, but it feels like I lost a best friend that I never got to have. I just want you to know that I feel for you and the rest of his friends and family. He left an impact on a lot of people, and he will be missed by many of us.

“ Mine and Josh's first race, and the spot we first raced. We both loved our cobalts, and had lots of late night talks in his favorite meeting spots around Jacksonville. Rest in peace buddy. I'm gonna really miss ya.
